Welcome to a new Q&A Session! Feel free to submit your questions at wespenreproductions@gmail.com and put Q&A in the subject line.

QUESTION 1: I used to believe there was polarity in the astral. When I found your info, this seems to be not the case. Both sides of the polarity are controlled by Enki. Angels and demons are both under him. How can I trust spirit guides now? I feel a connection to entities; how do I know if they are evil or good? How can I know their intentions?

Video 211: Q&A Session #48

ANSWER: Spirit guides are those who have passed the test of evolved consciousness and rewarded with a new job, so to speak. A person will not have achieved this state of being, unless they have evolved their state of being to the point of being a guide or teacher. This is an extremely advanced level and the purpose is to benefit humanity and guide humanity, either in groups or as individuals. This is not evil, per say. They ARE doing well, and to the best of their knowledge and ability, to help others achieve the same state of being. All these things are very beneficial and USED to be the only way to get out of here. We needed to “graduate” by passing these various levels of testing, achievement, and genuine growth. This is virtually impossible, however, and can take thousands of life cycles just to advance to one level. The way you tell if something is good or evil is to determine if the guidance you are receiving helps to either elevate your state of being or lowers it. This is true for all experiences within this construct, which can still be used to our benefit. Nothing is inherently all good or evil. Everything exists on a sliding scale of frequency and our choices are what move us up or down.

Still, these “advanced humans” won’t be able to leave the Matrix, and they are not told the truth about it. They think their graduation is an honorable thing. Spirit guides usually have your best interest in mind, but if you have seen our information about exiting through the Grid after this lifetime, instead of being recycled into a new human body, and you choose that path, you don’t even need to worry about spirit guides or other beings in the astral. You just think yourself through a hole in the Grid. There is much information about the Grid in our videos and on our blog, where you probably found us in the first place.

QUESTION 2: Once we are through the hole in the Grid, where do we go from there; will we run into some strange looking being wondering how we got there? Will we enter somewhere where we might not be invited? Will all memories come back? Is it possible that someone there knows who we are and has been waiting? Or will we be in shock and in awe from seeing the Greater Universe?

ANSWER: Yes, all these things are possible. We simply do not know what we will experience once we leave. We can’t say what anyone’s choices should be because that is up to each individual. There is the fear factor of the unknown that each person who will successfully leave this construct must confront within themselves. This is why we have stressed so many times that it is important to know yourself, intimately, and know what scares you. Whatever that may be, it is in your best interest to confront it and resolve it. We know what waits for us here. We are seeing it playing out right in front of our eyes, right now. People can make the choice to take a leap into the unknown or stay with the comfort of what is known.

Depending on how open-minded you are when you're on the other side of the Grid, you will experience the KHAA/Greater Universe according to what you are prepared to experience. It will be different from what NASA has told us. There, you will travel with thought (nano-travel)—you think yourself somewhere, and you'll be there almost instantly. We, Ariel and Wes, will personally go/think ourselves to Orion for an audition with the Queen, who WILL see us one-on-one. Then, we can learn more. It's also perfectly fine to browse the Universe. If you go to a place you don't care for, you can think yourself elsewhere, and you'll get there—no spaceship needed. If you go somewhere that is restricted, you will notice, and you can just leave. Our memories will come back once we're outside the Grid, but we carry our beliefs and belief systems from Earth with us, too. It can be surprising to see the Greater Universe—at least at first, before you've gotten more familiar with it. If you meet someone you don't want to mingle with, you have the right to reject the interaction. The Queen IS waiting for us in Orion...

QUESTION 3: Could this virus, because it affects the entire world, already be WW3; at least its beginning? If so, would the control of this virus have been initiated by those who are our reported Overlords and then "delivered" by them (via energies/loosh) to those below them in power?

ANSWER: WW3 doesn't necessarily need to be a physical war—it could just as well be a virus, 5G, a financial collapse, or all the above, and more... We don't know if this is part of a WW3 or not, but it's certainly not impossible. The virus was developed by humans, but all advanced technology has been given to us by the Overlords. However, to save their own butt, the gods want us to build certain things with this technology that are not beneficial for us, and that's exactly what we're doing.

What this virus seems to be part of is the transition into a new paradigm. It is happening, now. The New Earth, the New Age, the New World Order, are all titles or labels that represent this transition into the new paradigm. WW3, the way most of us think of it, may or may not play out as part of it. We don't know. What we do know is that the old way of doing things is passing away and a new way of doing things will ultimately be established and ARE being established with the help of this virus. Just like everything else that happens here on the planet, yes the picture is always much bigger than what we can only perceive in our physical reality and the ones who are in control of it are still in control, to the best of our knowledge. What we have concluded to this point is that whatever is playing out right now is happening a bit earlier than expected. They weren't ready yet for the transition to pick up speed, but now it has, and they (the "human" players) are trying to catch up and implement the plans and their part that they need to play. It has created a little bit of chaos and contradictory information between different factions who have different roles, but regardless, the results will be the same.

QUESTION 4: In one of your previous videos you mentioned that our Soul is split into many, many others incarnating on other time loops.(Presumably our Core Soul) My question is, did we willingly do that ourselves or did Enki have a hand in it? Did this occur before Tiamat was destroyed or after?

ANSWER: We were not supposed to have our souls split the way the Overlords have done it. On Tiamat, we did not have any souls splits, and there was no death. The splitting of the soul in the afterlife was implemented after the Flood, about 13,000 years ago.

QUESTION 5: If it wasn't for the malevolent entities managing the afterlife, could we reincarnate with our previous incarnation memories?

ANSWER: If it weren't for the agendas of the beings managing the afterlife, there would be NO reincarnation. The reincarnation system that we participate in is their design. If you were able to retain all your memories of experience, why would you need to reincarnate and do it all again? You wouldn't. The reincarnation system and amnesia serve the purpose of allowing us to graduate (see the answer to question 1), without cheating the system. Our progress is intended to be genuine growth. The only way that growth can be measured is by the choices we make. The only way to make those choices and not cheat on the test by already knowing the answers is to give us amnesia. Anyone can give a memorized answer to a test question, but did they actually read the material and study the work to arrive at that answer or did someone tell them the answer?

Do you see the difference? One way produces genuine and unselfish soul growth, and the other does not. One way will advance you through the system, and the other way will get you sent back here, repeating the same choices, until you finally arrive at the answer on your own and by your own merit. It isn't a bad system, but it wasn't supposed to be this hard and no one is graduating this way. It's virtually impossible with the amount of manipulation and abuse that humans are doing themselves, and it's only getting worse not better. That is why it's time to just leave and the rest of it will be sorted out once we are out of here.

QUESTION 6: Where is our genuine soul [located]? It's hooked up to this avatar, right? It's driving the avatar. Does our Oversoul have a physical body? Where has our main soul been kept? Is our soul in [some] white room or lab-like place? Can we see or feel our main soul in dream state?

ANSWER: Your genuine soul is right where you are. It IS you. The thoughts that compelled you to ask this question are coming from your soul. It is no different and not separated from your physical body. Your soul is what shapes your physical body and gives it form. If your soul is "sick", then your body will be also because this physical body is just a physical expression of your soul. You are complete as you are. However, we ARE fragmented to a large degree and that just means that certain aspects of your soul are acting separate and not in collaboration with the rest of you. It is still part of you, though.

It's like the difference of holding an apple in your hand. That apple can be whole and unbroken, or it can be cut up into slices. It's still an apple. It still tastes the same and still has all the qualities of an apple, but one is in segments and separated, and one is whole. A worm can enter one slice of the apple without affecting the whole. The same goes for us. Due to trauma, we have separated or fragmented portions of ourselves to protect the whole. We are still one package, however. All the slices are still being held in the hand.

There is an aspect of each of us that is unaffected and exists beyond this matrix construct, and that is what we call the Higher Self. The doesn't mean it exists in a different location, but rather in a different perspective. It is still part of you, but it is that part of you that is able to “see” beyond the 3D perspective and has a much broader and higher ability to understand more than one perspective (the physical). Your Higher Self is that part of you that can look at your flat tire and see it as a benefit by viewing it from a different perspective, rather than only seeing it as an annoyance or a burden. When we do this, we are existing and thinking/perceiving beyond this matrix. ALL these aspects of you are WITH you all the time. They ARE you. They are not located in some type of holding space that is separate from you. There is much, much more to us than we can just merely perceive with our physical senses. In fact, the parts of us that make up this physical body are only the smallest portion (only about 4%) of us that exists.

So, your Genuine Soul in combination with your artificial soul (your minds) is running your physical body. Your Genuine Soul is ultimately located inside of you. The reason we think of the soul being “outside” is because we are projecting what is inside us to the outside. Think about how you’re constructed as if you were an onion with layers of artificial light-bodies (the artificial soul) being the layers of the onion. The core of the onion is your Genuine Soul. The Oversoul, if we consider the Oversoul being the Genuine soul, does have a light-body of its own, which is called the Avatar in the Wes Penre Papers. This is the body you can choose your shape and form with. The main soul is the part of you with which you use your intuition and feel that you “know” without necessarily having any physical evidence that proves it.

Dream state is often the processing of life events in symbolic form. It has more to do with the artificial soul, although on occasion, the Genuine Soul can also participate.

QUESTION 7: Do you perceive the research discussing the destruction of Tiamat and Maldek as perhaps referencing [to] the same destructive event in our solar system?

ANSWER: Yes, they are just two names for the same planetary body, i.e. the planet on which we started the Human Experiment, and which was later destroyed by Marduk.
