As you may have noticed, we are currently in the middle of releasing our video series about the titles of the different gods and goddesses in the ancient text. We decided to insert a Q&A here, however, while we're preparing the rest of the videos in the series. We are also going to continue our other video series about human history after the Flood.

Please feel free to submit more questions for upcoming Q&As! You can send them to wespenreproductions@gmail.com and put "Q&A" in the subject line, so we don't accidentally miss your email. Now, let's start the Q&A.

QUESTION 1: Here in Puerto Rico, Martial Law has been declared. How does someone survive this kind of situation? I am concerned for my health as someone who has DID? If possible, can you include this in a Q&A video?

Video 215: Q&A Session #49

ANSWER: The Elite, with their minions in world politics and media, are “gaslighting” us to keep the confusion about this health crisis ruse going. It’s not that it doesn’t exist, but it’s not what they tell us it is. For those who don’t know what gaslighting is, it is used in terms of narcissism and psychopathy—the abuser is intentionally giving false narratives to their victims to confuse them and put them in fear, and this world is, as we know, run by psychopaths. Try to find ways to override the anxiety about this situation. Fear and anxiety are our worst enemies in this situation. Take precautions to the best of your ability and one day at the time—stay in the present, in other words. Even this shall pass.

QUESTION 2: What can we do if they make vaccines mandatory for virus? How can we escape? If we take it is there any herbals that can flush it out? I’m worried for kids. How can we save them?

ANSWER: Because of the confusion that is being spread—not so much from alternative media as from the authorities—we don’t really know what will happen. We prefer to take things as they come. If vaccines become mandatory for everybody in the world, we’ll need to consider what we want to do about it, and if there might be a way to avoid it. The best and only way to deal with this entire situation is to keep ourselves as informed as possible, do our research, and foremost—stay calm.

What we do and the choices we make as we move forward through this transition must be an individual choice. We understand that many people are looking for advice and want someone to lead them in knowing what they should do. We would like for all of you to know that whatever decision you make is the correct one for you. Listen to your heart and do what intuitively feels best for you. Now is the time to stand on our own two feet and take responsibility for how we choose to live during this shift. There is a lot of confusion being generated in the collective consciousness of humanity, and it’s only going to get worse. Go inside yourself, listen to your heart, and you will know what you should do. Whatever conclusion you make, accept no shame or guilt for your choices.

QUESTION 3: I was just wondering, when we are out of here, then we can do anything. Or will this real earth cease to exist when En.Ki and his co-jerks are gone?

ANSWER: The Earth was once created from the remnant of our previous planet—Tiamaat/Maldek—after it was destroyed in the War of the Titans. Thus, there is a blueprint of Earth, upon which we humans are creating our 3-D reality with our thoughts, intentions, and actions. We are putting our soul energy into it as a mass consciousness. If we all were to leave together with the Overlords, the Earth would slowly decay, and everything would eventually die because there is no longer any soul energy sustaining it. And if the ET technology that's being utilized to maintain this Construct, in addition to our own creative energies, will no longer be used, the Earth will probably overtime return to being a piece of rock, in the same way it started out, once the soul energy runs out.

QUESTION 4: What I've heard regarding the New Earth is that once there, there is no death, but you can choose to die if you want to. With that in mind, could we actually go through with this "Event" and then shed whatever bodies we have there in order to exit the Grid (if there is one), or do you think the Grid would have been done away with by then? Do you think we would even be able to escape at all if this "Event" actually happened? OR if we did end up on this "New Earth", would that actually mean that our chance of escape has been slashed to zero?

ANSWER: Based on what we have come to understand, the New Earth is just another technologically created “copy” of this reality. It will be a descent into what we would call a digital realm. Think of it as living inside the internet. It will be a new paradigm and a lot of changes will occur. One of those changes is that humans will no longer be operating a physical body, but a digital “twin” or copy of their avatar (which we strongly feel is already in place and being created or prepared for us, the more we interact with the internet) which is required for occupying and existing in this technologically enhanced realm. Think about this, if the only way to leave this construct is to exit after physical death, then how is exiting possible when physical death no longer takes place? Yes, we would agree with you that when this occurs, the “grid” will no longer be in place because we will be in an entirely new realm of reality. The grid will no longer be necessary, as we will be “living” inside of a new version of the grid, so to speak. For all intents and purposes, “New Earth” that is being promoted is a new construct or realm of reality that we will be moved into. It is the realm of the Singularity.

So, we wouldn't want to advise anyone to go with an Event or any other staged scenario, such as an ascension. If someone suggest you go to a "New Earth," we suggest you run the other way. These promoted events are not coming from outside the Matrix but from En.ki and Marduk. Although it might sound great, it's yet another trip deeper down the rabbit hole. Our consistent advice is to go through the Grid when this lifetime is over.

QUESTION 5: Do mind altering substances (i.e. Cannabis and DMT) hinder our ability to connect to the Queen, our higher self? Or does it depend on our intention for using the substance?

ANSWER: It doesn't depend on your intentions as much as it depends on your state of being. These substances make the veil between the physical reality and nonphysical reality very translucent and transparent. For some, it can be a glorious and beautiful, growing experience. For others, it can be a nightmare as we experience the pain and fear that may be suppressed in the subconscious. When we ingest these substances, we come face to face with our own nonphysical reality and self, and because the realm of thoughtforms doesn't use words, but rather images, we might encounter things that frighten us or visions that fill us with feelings of beauty and love. We have read and heard stories from people who have come away with a feeling that they have connected with Source or "God", but realize that in the realm of thoughtforms, we are experiencing OURSELVES. The monsters as well as the beautiful experiences we may experience are all inside us. It is a peak at who you are beyond the physical perceptions that we all know. Who or what we will experience will depend, of course, on who and what we are on the inside because that is where we are "going" when we do these things.

So, the disclaimer we might have is that people who use cannabis daily for recreational purpose, it will dull the mind over time of many users, which can be an obstacle when it comes to seeing things the way they are. Regarding DMT, LSD, and similar, it's a double-edged sword. What are we actually experiencing when we take these substances? It's easy to be deceived by the Matrix.

QUESTION 6: Where should I recommend [people] to start, to introduce them to your information to make them inquisitive and give them a desire to continue to read? Unfortunately, I know very few will continue to read, but I feel I need to give them the opportunity to discover the truth and let make their own choice.

ANSWER: First, we would suggest that we can't make someone inquisitive. A curiosity and a desire to know can only come from the individual person themselves. We can't "make" someone learn what we want them to learn. It doesn't work that way, and to be honest, it is a violation of that person's freewill to choose their own path when we attempt to choose it for them. You can suggest topics and maybe, in small ways, try to pique their curiosity by injecting a question or two into the conversation if it's appropriate, and then that leaves it up to them to pursue it and begin their own journey to getting answers for themselves. How you do that and what you say will depend upon the conversation, but if the person is ready to receive your assistance, you will know it and the opportunity will be obvious. Just pay attention and rather than directing them to material or things you think they should look into, focus on first opening their mind to asking the big questions. That's where the journey starts for all of us; with a question. If they are ready to ask that question, it will happen in the way that it is supposed to.

Then, it depends on how much knowledge the person has to begin with. If they are completely ignorant about what is going on, but start questioning things, we would suggest the person first goes to wespenre.com, click on Site Map, and reads "The Illuminati Papers." If he or she needs more information on what is going on in the world on a 3-D level, there is another website that I, Wes, launched in 1998 at illuminati-news.com. That website also touches a little bit on the ET Agenda. Then, they might be ready for the Wes Penre Papers at wespenre.com and our videos.

A special thanks from the bottom of our hearts to our Tier 3 and Tier 4 Patrons, who are of tremendous support, so we can continue our mission. A special thanks also to Patrons of all other tiers. They will be mentioned at the final end of this video. Here are a few, who have accepted being mentioned in this video:
