The 4th Reich

The British newspaper, The Independent, wrote in 2011:

Secret United States documents uncovered by a Jewish human rights group have proved the existence of a Nazi support group that sought to smuggle people and gold out of Germany in 1945, and worked for the establishment of a Fourth Reich.

The group is vividly portrayed in Frederick Forsyth's novel The Odessa File. Mr Forsyth confirmed yesterday that his novel was based on reports of a meeting in France in August 1944. This meeting is detailed in US documents seen by The Independent which were collected by a top-secret intelligence operation called Project Safehaven at the end of the war.

'Their plan was to smuggle gold, patents and art out of Germany along with top industrialists,' Mr Steinberg said. 'Meanwhile, the Nazi Party would re-establish itself in Germany as an underground movement.' The document was discovered in July when Mr Steinberg gained access to recently declassified papers from the National Archive in Washington. Mr Steinberg has authenticated the report and linked it to others which show that the German Reichsbank was involved in the plot.

According to a secret US State Department telegram dated 4 December 1945, the Reichsbank maintained a depot of gold at the Swiss National Bank throughout the war. By 1945 it had accumulated bullion worth $123m which was earmarked for Odessa operations.¹

Now let's take a look at Odessa (which in English stands for Organization of former SS-Members). The following is from Wikipedia:

Nazi concentration camp supervisors denied the existence of an organisation called ODESSA. The US War Crimes Commission reports and the American OSS neither confirmed nor denied claims about the existence of such an organisation. Wechsberg, who after emigrating to the United States had served as an OSS officer and member of the US War Crimes Commission, however, claimed that in interviews of outspoken German anti-Nazis some asserted that plans were made for a Fourth Reich before the fall of the Third,[12] and that this was to be implemented by reorganising in remote Nazi colonies overseas: "The Nazis decided that the time had come to set up a world-wide clandestine escape network." [13]

They used Germans who had been hired to drive U.S. Army trucks on the autobahn between Munich and Salzburg for the 'Stars and Stripes,' the American Army newspaper. The couriers had applied for their jobs under false names, and the Americans in Munich had failed to check them carefully... (the) ODESSA was organized as a thorough, efficient network... Anlaufstellen (ports of call) were set up along the entire Austro-German border... In Lindau, close to both Austria and Switzerland, (the) ODESSA set up an 'export-import' company with representatives in Cairo and Damascus.²

We know for a fact that Nazi leaders fled to Antarctica and Argentina, among other places. In Argentina, they were welcomed by Juan Perón, who became the Head of State in 1946. The Nazis also had help to escape from the Vatican and the Scandinavian countries.³ Interesting, however, that they don't directly mention the United States here, although it is general knowledge that the absolute top Nazi scientists were smuggled into the U.S. after the war through Operation Paperclip. Still, in the last quoted paragraph from Wikipedia above, it mentions Germans driving U.S. Army trucks, but they "had failed to check them carefully." We can believe that, if we want...

Case in point, the Nazis never escaped from world politics, science, education, and the overall propaganda machine. They just officially lost the war; but they are still thriving behind the scenes. And as many of us know, who have done some research, Nazism is very active in the U.S. NASA was founded by Nazis, and the propaganda we are facing now is like taken from Josef Göbbels's ingenious propaganda machine. Mind control in its most sophisticated forms, such as MK ULTRA, originate in Nazi Germany and was brought over here after the war. Dr. Josef Mengele was one of the forerunners of MK ULTRA during WW II.

Like Wikipedia tells us, the leaders of Nazi Germany wanted to create a 4th Reich before the 3rd Reich had even risen. But they knew at one point (apparently in 1944) that they couldn't win the war with their current strategies, so they started planning on a 4th Reich behind the scenes, away from public scrutiny. They just went from overt to covert operations, and the Nazis had and have allies all over the world who are still on the bandwagon—often in places we expect the least. What is happening in the world right now, we can call whatever we want. Most researchers call it the New World Order, but we can just as well call it the 4th Reich.

So, if Yaldabaoth and his Archons wanted the Nazis to win the war, why did they lose? Because they think “long thoughts,” as I mentioned in the Wes Penre Papers (WPP). For them, a generation is nothing—their plans stretch further than that. Ever since their version of the world began, their strongest control mechanism has been divide and conquer. Conflicts are important to them because they fill many purposes. They feed and aggravate both sides in a conflict—they are the invisible third party that starts the conflicts. They keep the population rate under control when needed, they diversify and distract people, and the Archons feed from the rage and the fear during conflicts and wars. Moreover, conflicts set the stage for the next project. If you want to reach a certain goal, and the goal is too big to reach right away, you need to set the goal first, then you set different targets to reach there, and then you might create bullet points to reach the targets. Now, translate that to span over many generations. The 4th Reich/New World Order is the next step.

In this next step, modern concentration camps will potentially be created, starting out with forceful isolation of people who refuse to take the v-shots. It has already started in New York, who passed a bill called, A416.⁴ If this bill will pass in all states, we have the beginning of detention of people who refuse to take the v-shots. This is what is happening right now in New York: if we are New Yorkers and refuse the shot, we can be detained in a medical facility, in accordance with Bill A416. Ask New Yorkers about this bill and find out how many people know about it—probably not many. These things easily fall under the radar—purposely so.

Why is this so serious? Because things are forced upon us on a gradient, and it’s justified by telling us it’s the best for everybody—Göbbels’ legacy lives on. The propaganda has already reached its goal—very few people will object to this bill because of fear of getting the c-virus if the “rebels” are not detained and isolated. But why would they get the illness if they have had the shots already? Why the fear? Well, that’s beside the point, apparently, because you are obviously not safe even with the shots, as we hear from the “authorities.” People don’t think beyond their fear. They feel helpless and are apparently too afraid to even research these things. Anyway, what could this bill lead to long-term? Well, from here, it will be an easy step forward to detain people permanently if they refuse the shot—or at least until they give in and agree to get the DNA altering liquid in their body. More about DNA in an upcoming video.

What we can see is history repeating itself because we never learned. It will be a little different this time—probably a so-called “silent war,” without physical battlefields and people shooting each other to pieces. What the establishment learned from WW II was that there are more effective ways to win a war, such as psychological warfare, as dictated in the document, *Silent Weapons for Quiet Wars*⁵.

And lastly, for the sake of this video, I'm going to quote from an article in The Voice from 2019 called, Rise of the Fourth Reich Continues in the United States, written by John W. Whitehead of The Rutherford Institute⁶:

...With every passing day, the United States government borrows yet another leaf from Nazi Germany's playbook: Secret police. Secret courts. Secret government agencies. Surveillance. Censorship. Intimidation. Harassment. Torture. Brutality. Widespread corruption. Entrapment. Indoctrination. Indefinite detention.

These are not tactics used by constitutional republics, where the rule of law and the rights of the citizenry reign supreme. Rather, they are the hallmarks of authoritarian regimes, where the only law that counts comes in the form of heavy-handed, unilateral dictates from a supreme ruler who uses a secret police to control the populace.

That danger is now posed by the FBI, whose laundry list of crimes against the American people includes surveillance, disinformation, blackmail, entrapment, intimidation tactics, harassment and indoctrination, governmental overreach, abuse, misconduct, trespassing which enables criminal activity, and damaging private property; and that's just based on what we know.

Much like the Gestapo which spied on mail and phone calls, FBI agents have carte blanche access to the citizenry's most personal information.

[...]

Much like the Gestapo's sophisticated surveillance programs, the FBI's spying capabilities can delve into Americans' most intimate details (and allow police to do so, as well).

Much like the Gestapo's power to render anyone an enemy of the state, the FBI has the power to label anyone a domestic terrorist...⁷

...And on it goes. I suggest you read the entire article (see Footnote 7 in the transcript to get the URL).

Next up in this series will be a final discussion (for now) about the subterranean groups and their possible involvement in yesterdays and today's politics and movement toward a much more controlled society than we even have today.
