Dear listener/reader! I need another week to gather, sort, and present my research regarding the Metaverse and other related topics—very important to grasp. I want to present it as simply as I can because I want it to be as obvious as possible. So, bear with me! In the meantime, we'll have another Q&A. Good questions, by the way. Keep sending more at wespenre2@gmail.com, and put Q&A in the subject line.

QUESTION 1: Within the past several years and now months we would all agree to the never-before occurring, unbelievable human events taking place.

Yet it's not so much the occurrence of fake governments, viruses/variants, mainstream media et al, but the realization by more and more of that reality. We are waking up- more and more with each passing day! Wouldn't this recognition, this remembering, raise our collective vibration to not just postpone a singularity event but implode it?

ANSWER: I believe you are correct when you say more people are waking up now, because things are getting so blatantly in our faces. I see this in comments of technocratic websites, too. Less and less people seem to buy into the entire Singularity Agenda. This has changed since only a couple of years ago. It is of course a great thing, and I hope the same people start looking for ways out of the Kenoma. On the other side of this, others are instead diving deeper into the virtual world being presented to us. The main target is always the young people; they want to hook the younger generation and let us dinosaurs die out. It has always been more difficult to hook older people who have more experience and don't fall for things as easily as young, enthusiastic kids and teenagers.

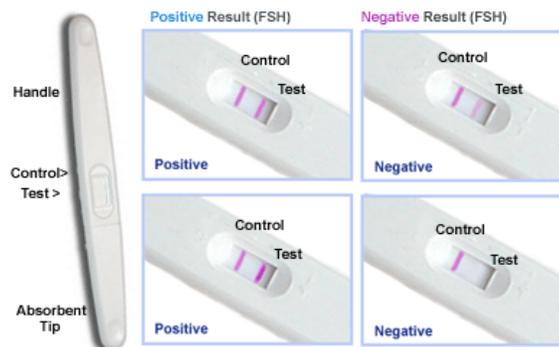

We need to see how all this plays out. Just because the EL-ite have an agenda, it doesn't mean it's going to work out for them. I think we are now at the crossroads, and we will know in a couple of years or so in what direction this is heading. Nonetheless, it's very good news that people are waking up. Every single human who does that is one more human who potentially can save themselves!

QUESTION 2: A lot of rumours are spread around about the Corona vaxx that will kill lots of people. If we consider this a fact, and massive numbers of people die, what will happen to the small number of the population that did not take the vaxx and survived? Won't they be like the Namlu'us who escaped from the flood and felt appealed to continue with the experiment and ended up being trapped? What about the billions of dead bodies which will be all over, how are they going to get away with them? How will they clean up the air?

ANSWER: It is true that people die both from the Covid bioweapon and from the horrendous vaccines. But not everyone does, even though they get the same “illness” and vaccine. I think it’s a process where humanity is sorting itself out. Some people are not “compatible” with the nanotechnology in the shots, and they get very sick, and some die. I believe the EL-ite knows this, and it’s part of the process. It’s probably a genetic thing. Those who survive vaccines and boosters will be the future synthetic humans—the cyborgs—or Homo Singularitus, as I call them.

Contrary to many other researchers, I don’t think the culling of the population will happen through the bioweapon—it will happen indirectly through the vaccines, but not by killing people in droves. It’s going to be done through infertility. The generation growing up now, getting vaccinated as little children, will notice when it's time to have children of their own that they can't—they are infertile. Humanity will, for the most part, die off naturally, and the emphasis will be on the young when it comes to luring them into the Singularity. Within a couple of generations, we have a global population of only young people, who will be physically immortal and merged with the machine in the Machine Kingdom/Singularity/Virtual and digital reality. They will not physically age or die. Through vaccines, boosters, and people connecting via nanotechnology with the Smart Grid, they will eventually have people hooked, and those who don't want to change will be left behind to die off as they please, without any support from the System. The Controllers can, via vaxx and perhaps brain implants, as promoted by EL-on Musk, decide how many people will remain on Earth.

We have only seen a part of the Agenda so far, such as the Covid bioweapon, vaccines, and now the Metaverse, which is particularly targeting young people. But there will be more things coming in rapid speed, so whatever the EL-ite has planned when it comes to culling the population, we will soon be aware of it. But I don't think it will be mass slaughter, so to speak—it's going to be more sophisticated. So, there will probably be no massive piles of dead bodies that need to be taken care of. These are just my thoughts right now, of course...

QUESTION 3: I was watching a video of a guy who had a near death experience... he said that right when he died he was in darkness and then he saw a light and moved toward it which took him down a tunnel and then down another tunnel where he was met by 3 orbs of light and he immediately had a life review, in which he said that he felt all the pain he had caused others along with joy, and that the orbs held him in love during the whole experience, then he was asked if he wanted to stay or go back, he chose to go back...

My question is, if he had known about the grid at death and going through a hole in it, would he have had the same experience with the 3 orbs? Or would he have just seen the grid with an opportunity to leave?

Also, I am wondering why the 3 orbs of light would even entertain the idea of letting him go back once they had him in their clutches... unless to send him back to tell one of many NDE's to trick people into going into the light when they too die... He did end his story saying that he wished he had stayed and can't wait to go back once he dies for good... and also that he couldn't believe that he actually thought he was that human back on Earth, now out of body. He remembered he had lived many lives before but could not remember them in detail.

ANSWER: If this person had known about the Grid and would be determined to leave, he would have seen the Grid because then it would be there in his “reality.” Here is a daily life example: have you ever experienced that you are with a friend or somebody, and you are doing your things. Suddenly, for example, your friend points at a bucket on the ground, and he says, “I wish people could pick these up after them.” You look, and you swear there was no bucket there a few seconds ago! And it wasn’t—not in your reality, and not until someone pointed it out. Or car keys that were on the counter all the time, but you didn’t see them until someone else pointed at them.

Regarding the three orbs: because they were inside the tunnel, this person would not have encountered them if he instead had gone for the Grid.

Also, it seems like we humans have a few potential exit points during a lifetime; if we don't die the first time, we might die at the next exit point. This person might have had his NDE during one of the first exit points, and therefore, he was asked the question whether he wanted to return. But you're right; sometimes souls are sent back to tell about the fantastic experience they had in the afterlife to lure people into the tunnel.

QUESTION 4: If the 7 Heavens is equivalent to the solar system, i.e., the Patrix, where Saturn is the 7th Heaven, then what are we calling the physical universe, i.e., the 4% that En.ki/Yaldabaoth has authority over? Here is where he is God to the people of Earth and elsewhere residing within the Milky Way Galaxy, and you are saying that outside the solar system is the 8th Heaven, and above possibly to the 12th, although according to the Gnostics, they are saying that there are 9 Heavens.

You've mention in articles that sometimes there are Wars in the KHAA, is this something that's all around us that encompasses apart of everything, all that is?

ANSWER: The 7 Heavens, all existing within what we call our solar system, is Yaldabaoth's domain. We call it by many names, such as "The 7 Heavens," "The Kenoma," "The Matrix," "The Patrix," "The 4% universe," or simply, "The solar system."

The 4% Universe is the part of the Greater Universe (also called Orion) that we humans, with our limitations, can perceive with our five senses, including what we see in telescopes, etc. When we leave the Kenoma, we get access to so much more. Even when we have Out of Body Experiences (OBEs), we expand our views beyond the limitations of the human physical body.

Different schools of thought mention different numbers of Heavens, but in some cases, it just depends on how we are counting. The Gnostics usually don't count the five Heavens below—the so-called Hell Dimensions, although they are mentioned. So, if you count Yaldabaoth's Heavens, which are 7 in number, Orion, which is the Eighth Heaven, the Ninth Heaven, which is the intermediary between all the universes and the Pleroma/the Spiritual Realm, and the five Heavens below, it adds up to 12, and the Pleroma is number thirteen.

However, in some Vedic teachings, there are fourteen heavens within the egg-shaped universe (see picture on the screen or in the transcript).

QUESTION 5: In your Q&A sessions you have talked about that suicide would lower our frequency and thus is not recommended. What about vaccines? Aren't they designed to control us humans with soul and keep us in a lower frequency net so we wouldn't be able to leave this grid? So, if I have a choice to leave my life voluntarily and knowingly; that I will save my Soul that way; would that really be such a bad thing to do in case vaccines are forced onto us?

ANSWER: This is always a difficult question to answer because it must ultimately be each person's choice whether to end their lives by their own hand. There are no absolutes when it comes to this, as I see it. I am not recommending it, but that doesn't mean I condemn it, either. We all need to take as much as we can into consideration, look at things from as many perspectives as possible, and then make an educated decision that is not based on reactive emotions, such as fear.

My conclusion, based on my research over the years, and my own inner perception, is that technology can't trap a soul that is aware, unless that soul agrees to be trapped. Once our consciousness has increased to the degree we can see through the agendas, and raise ourselves above the crowd, read to let go of attachments, we can't have our consciousness permanently lowered by technology. It doesn't matter if they are using ELF (acronym for Extremely Low Frequency) on us, and we start feeling pulled down in vibration. We are still us, with our experiences, and when we die, we can raise ourselves above that. If I am wrong about this, and I notice things are going south, and I can't do much about it so long as I am in this reality, I would need to weigh my options, like you suggest...
