
Q&A Session #4, April 2024

by Wes Penre, April 22, 2024

Here is a new Q&A. Thank you for your questions! Please send more to wespenre2@gmail.com, and put Q&A in the subject line so I won't miss your email.

If you want to check out any of my books, please go to <https://amazon.com> and type Wes Penre into the Amazon search engine at the top of their page. Some books are also in Spanish!

People who have read my new book, Simulations and the Wheels of Time, can start asking questions they might have about the book, and just like with the Isis Book and the ORION books, I will do special Q&A sessions for the new book.

Now to this week's questions:

Question #1: I am a bit confused on how the Queen of Orion was created. I think I am mixing it up with the story of Yaldabaoth.... The original female energy creator in The Pleroma, created Yaldabaoth without her male counterpart The Christ and Yaldabaoth was born? But then I am confused thinking that this is how The Orion Queen was born, by doing the same thing creating an exact duplicate of herself and then sent her away and then she created our world in Orion and then became the Queen of Orion. Again, I am sure I am mixing up the stories a bit.

Comment: What you are referring to here are the Christian Gnostic Texts (the Nag Hammadi), and they hint at the truth in some regard, but they are not the truth. They are inverted, i.e., they condemn the feminine and put the masculine on the pedestal, suggesting what is wrong with the Matrix and this Universe is Sophia's (the Orion Queen) fault. The Nag Hammadi are, despite including Sophia, patriarchal.

It's too much to cover if we want to discuss ideas about the Ultimate Creation, so we'll just touch on the surface here: Think of the Pleroma as Spirit, i.e., the cosmic ocean (which NASA erroneously calls "space" or "vacuum"). This seemingly infinite ocean is Source. Spirit/Source is also the source of creation, and creative energies are always feminine. Therefore, Source (or the MONAD, as the Nag Hammadi calls it) can't be masculine. Source, in the sense of the infinite ocean, started creating. According to the Nag Hammadi, Source emanated twelve separate parts of himself (should be herself), called the Aeons. According to the texts, Sophia was the last Aeon Source created. Whether this is true, or if Source created universes by herself and inserted/manifested herself into each one, I will leave for debate because that's unknown to me. Either way, the Spirit (Aeon) Sophia created the Orion Universe/the Greater Universe, and she inserted herself in the "game," as the Orion Queen. She manifested in her own creation, similar to if you create a computer game with avatars and all the rest of it. But you, as the programmer, also insert your own avatar in the game and start playing. Your advantage in the “game” is that you know so much more than the other players how your computer universe works. Therefore, you are perhaps considered the Queen or the King by the other avatars.

Question #2: You have spoken about Marduk being the Jeshua of the Bible and when people pray to Jesus they are praying to Marduk who is also Satan. Was Marduk also Magnus, the one who was crucified? And was Christ the Walk-In of Jeshua's body, was he actually watching this happen or is that just a Gnostic story? What I am really trying to understand is if the Christ who entered the body of Jeshua was it Marduk or actually the Christ and then when the Bible was made did they only speak on Marduk/Jesus's life which includes his crucifixion and not the actual Christ from The Pleroma?

Comment: I can't say whether Marduk was Magnus or Simon, who supposedly were crucified in Marduk's place. I am not even so sure there was a crucifixion in the first place, or if that is a made-up story.

According to what I have considered at this point, Marduk's 2-UC (soul-mind) incarnated in Jesus' body. Then, if we refer to the Gnostic text, Jesus Christ was channeling through Jesus in the flesh from the "skies above." Jesus in the flesh is thus Marduk, and Jesus Christ (from the Pleroma, according to the Gnostics) is Khan En.lil.

Whether Khan En.lil actually channeled through Marduk is unknown. He might have, but not in the way we think of it. But that is a story for another time.

However, why do the Nag Hammadi texts say that Jesus Christ (Khan En.lil) is in the Pleroma if he is not even spirited like the Queen? I suggest the concept that he is from the Pleroma is not in error. He and the Sirians consider themselves to be from the KHAA (Spirit Universe/Pleroma/Cosmic ocean), which is partly correct. They left their home worlds and went to explore and conquer the lower levels of the KHAA. Thus, they can boast that they are from the Pleroma.

Question #3: I was reading the Isis book and am little confused about something:

You mentioned in the book that Marduk's goal was to completely destroy Enki's bloodline by Isis incarnating into the Davidian Shem bloodline as the Virgin Mary and give birth to Jesus androgynously to create a pure Marduk-Isis bloodline.

But wouldn't this make the bloodline not so pure, since Isis incarnated into the Enki-Isis bloodline? In the new bloodline that Marduk wanted to create, wouldn't there be traces or to some degree Enki's DNA thus making it impure.

Wes Penre Productions

Thank you for the book.

Comment: Yes, no bloodline is 100% pure. They all contain DNA from different "gods." Even the Isis bloodline comprises both her and Ninurta's DNA. If Marduk wanted to have his Sirian blood dominating the human bloodlines, and at the same time dilute En.ki's bloodline/bloodlines, the best way to do that is to insert his own DNA and spread it. That's what he did, starting with the Patriarchs of the Bible, from what it seems. Next, he also contaminated the Isis' Merovingian bloodline by inserting his own DNA into it already from the beginning. Further down the line, he used Ereškigal instead of Isis (see my Isis book). But to answer your question more directly: The best Marduk could do was to add his DNA to humans. That way, he basically adds more Sirian DNA into humans, which is exactly what he wants (Isis has Sirian DNA, as well, through her mother, Gula). That will make humans more aggressive and warlike, and also, when the Singularity and Metaverse are established, other Sirians can ride our Avatars, as well, because we will hopefully have dominant Sirian genes ("hopefully" being from a Sirian point of view).

Question #4: It makes perfect sense that he (Marduk) dictated the Bible to the scribes in the manner he desired; the "revelation of the method" tactic that Hollywood uses today. The Book of Revelation prophecy is being fulfilled just as he revealed it. Christians always want to believe a benevolent god is in control of earth despite the contrarian evidence surrounding us. Wars, famine and poverty are not how a true creator god would create a soul group.

How can Sophia create a whole world in her mind and bring it into existence but cannot control Marduk's mismanagement of the Homo Salian sapiens?

Comment: It's not that Sophia can't control what is happening on Earth, it is a matter of what we humans want. If the Orions come here as invaders to fight the Sirians, first of all there is going to be a devastating war that will wipe out a big chunk of the human soul group, and second, if you ask 1,000 humans randomly if they seriously and honestly want to die and leave Earth and live in Orion—a universe completely unknown to them—perhaps 990 of them would say “no way, Earth is my home.” If Orion would invade anyway, they are indeed invaders, similar to what the Sirians did when they invaded Tiamat.

Also, it could very well be that Project Bluebeam which has been discussed so many times could be the Sirian Khan Kings' Plan B narrative, telling us a hostile alien force is invading (when it is Orion coming to liberate). Thus, the Sirians will get most of the human population on their side, fighting against Orion. So, it's a very delicate matter.

Question #5: The Croats vs. Serb Conflict: I wasn't involved in politics growing up, but assumed we mostly associated with the Serbs because our religion was orthodox. Note.: I'm not religious! Are they all Marduk's ppl whose focus is finance rather than tech? Croatia seemed more advanced than Serbia at the time in terms of modern living.

Comment: I have suggested that these days, Marduk is indeed in charge (in control) of Earth—at least for the most part. And if so, why do we still have wars between nations? Behind the scenes, the governments, presidents, dictators, kings, and queens of this world are being manipulated by Marduk's Minions (the EL-ite) by people like the late Henry Kissinger, for example. The EL-ite often plays both sides of a conflict as a middle-man in between (called a "third-party") and turns nations against each other because this benefits the Sirians for different reasons. Also, they need to commit genocide as a matter of population control, and to create fear, terror, torture, and trauma, and to move closer to the Singularity. This is how they control us on a global scale. So, in summary, I would say most nations today, on the highest level, are run by Marduk.

Question #6: Names to identify bloodlines? Why do Macedonians, polish, and other Slavonic ppl have "ski" or "sky" on the end of their names? Is the "ski" from Erishkigal or Enki?

What does ending "ich/ić" or "ov" or "ok" mean? Is "ić" from Isis and ok or ov from Marduk?

Wes Penre Productions

Comment: I included these questions because I assume more people have wondered. Unfortunately, I am not a linguist, but I have noticed the Slavic languages have much in common with the old Sumerian and Babylonian languages. That's not so strange when we think about that today's Serbia was once a matriarchal society, invaded from the east, turning matriarchy into patriarchy, which is what we still have here today. I don't know the origin of all these endings, but in Serbia, "vić" means "son," (ex. Milosević), similar to Anderson, son of Anders.

Your support helps me continue doing what I'm doing. Without it, I can't continue with my videos and research. Ko-fi could be a good alternative for you. It's located in Europe and doesn't charge you taxes when you donate, and the platform is very similar to Patreon. But you must have a PayPal account to donate to Ko-Fi—it doesn't take cards. If that's an obstacle, Patreon is the way to go, where you can pay with card.

I am also on WISE (wise.com) if you want to support me there. On WISE you can use your debit/credit card or bank account instead of PayPal, and you can set yourself up for automatic monthly donations, like on Patreon. On WISE, there are also no taxes (VAT), and the transfer fees are almost non-existent. All you need to do is to open an account and search for my email address, wespenre2@gmail.com, or my real name, Per Sewen, and then set yourself up for automatic payments.

A shout-out and special thanks to my Tier 2 to 4 Patrons, whose support is invaluable so I can continue my work. Here are a few who have accepted having their names mentioned. When I post videos, I will separate the Shout-out from the regular honorary mentions, as I used to do, but when I'm posting articles, I see no reason to separate them:
