Here we go:

Question #1: Do you have any information on Project Bluebeam? Also I thought it was possible that Enki reincarnated as Yeshua? Just like from my understanding Yahweh has been played by both Enlil AND Anu? So many different stories, hard to know which one is correct. I just wanted to reach out and ask those questions though.

Comment: Project Bluebeam is a potential agenda the Khan Kings and the Global Elite will play out. It's a fake alien invasion that will be projected into the Matrix, and it will seem very real. That is supposed to bring all humanity together to fight this "invader force," and the outcome will be that we support the Overlords instead of our allies from Orion, and it will unite the world in a One World Government. The Overlords are experts at inverting things. Basically, everything here on Earth is inverted. The Khan Kings/Overlords take what is true from the Spirit Realm and make a "bad copy," as some people call it. Essentially, they turn feminine into masculine (patriarchy), and that's all they need to do to confuse us and see things from "their perspective." That's the trap we need to confront to be able to return to Orion.

En.ki is just a title, which we loosely can define as "Lord of Earth." The being we normally call En.ki is no longer in charge of this planet, from what I've reckoned. Instead, it's the avatar Marduk, En.ki's son, who can perhaps be viewed as En.ki's "dark side." Nothing is what it seems to be, which will hopefully be evident with my new book in the making. I've decided for a title, "The War Between Three Universes."

Regarding YHVH, the origin of this ancient Hebrew word is with the Queen. She is the original YHVH, but the title was, on occasion, transferred down to be "legally" used by Prince En.lil/Ninurta. However, the title was later hijacked by both En.ki and Marduk. From knowing a little about these two latter beings' personalities, we can see through the Bible and other ancient text who is who.

Question #2: What is the best way you have found to connect with spirit? How does one determine if they are 2UC or 3UC? What do you think are the most defining attributes humans can use to determine which they are?

Comment: I can only speak for myself, of course. We are Spirit, but we have been disconnected from it for so long. Maybe "disconnected" is the wrong word because we have it, and we use it, without understanding that we do—it's the creative side of us. When we are in our homo sapiens bodies, we use our Matrix minds to operate.

They are the conscious, subconscious, and unconscious minds as discussed in the “Simulations and Wheels Within Wheels in the Developing Worlds” book (Amazon.com). But we have a spirit body, as well, which is immortal—our creative mind, the Divine Mind. Connecting to Spirit, while here in the Matrix, means we have a stream of consciousness flowing through us. If we don’t know better, we might think it’s something “outside” ourselves that we connect to, which is false. Our true creative selves flow through. You can see this happening with artists, whether they are musicians, fine artists, writers, or whatever other art form you can think of. If the stream of consciousness is not flowing through, there is no art.

How does it feel when this stream flows through? First, it’s a concept—no words, no thoughts, just a “package” of communication. When it happens, you feel elevated, exhilarated, and “out of this world,” the same feeling as if you’re high on heroin or some other mind-altering drug. Then it’s up to the inferior conscious mind to interpret this “package.” This is not always correct because of the lower density and the amnesia we are experiencing here. So, the only reason, in my opinion, that intelligence is relevant is to be able to interpret the stream of consciousness washing through. And yes, even dark musicians/composers are connected with Spirit, but they interpret their message from what is in their three Matrix minds (see above). There could be darkness or there could be light, or something in between.

One way of determining whether you are spirited or not is if you have imagination. Is your mind full of pictures, creative thoughts? Can you “philosophize?” Can you create what you want in your mind, even though you might not manifest it? If the answer to these questions is yes, you’re spirited, from all I can tell.

Question #3: I read somewhere recently regarding the following from the Kyle Thomas Astrology blog for June 2024: "This will be a tremendous period for releasing anything that is holding us back from ascending to our highest good. False prophets, gurus, and secret societies will fall, as well as a streamlining of mainstream spirituality and religion. There will likely be a major overhaul in regards to the medical, psychological, and prison systems. Secrets hidden and disguised in the past thirty years could be aired out in our lives and on a global scale, too." Do you know anything about this Wes? I sure want to know what these secrets are.

Comment: This is based on astrology, as you said. Nothing wrong with that—there is truth in astrology. I am not an astrologer, however, so I can't vouch for the accuracy or falsehood in Thomas' statement. I don't know anything about him, so I can't make any judgments. From the statement itself, I can only hope he's right. Although I am usually an optimist as a human being, when it comes to humankind as a whole, I am pessimistic. Time is not on our side, and I see little advancement on a global scale. So, all I can say, let's hope he's right.

Question #4: Was homo sapiens sapiens genetically engineered to seek out and/or worship a leader/savior/messiah/God? If so, why was this done? Who did it? What was the motivation?

Comment: Homo sapiens sapiens were rather tinkered with than engineered. We existed as androgynous beings in the Atlantis era, so En.ki and his team made a “bad copy” (as usual) of us as Namlú'u. They can't do anything else because they don't understand Spirit. That's what we see when we look ourselves in the mirror today.

“[We’re] not busy being born, [we are] busy dying,” as Bob Dylan said.<sup>1</sup> We went from immortality to death. Here everything dies (except the immortal Spirit).

Yes, the Khan Kings require worship because they want our energy. They have, in the past, lost their own ability to retain energy, so they need us to survive on so many levels. If they can’t obtain their own energy, and if they don’t have us, they literally die and dissolve. At least, we reincarnate here, but they die forever because they are 100% physical, and the physical is all about death.

It was the physical beings, the Khan Kings, aka the Sirians, aka the Overlords, who did it. Motives change depending on who’s in charge, but the current motive, directed by Marduk, is to create the optimal version of Metaverse with its umbrella concept of the Singularity. They want to take over our spirit bodies and “ride us” into Orion. What does this truly mean? My idea and argument will be included in the new book I’m currently writing.

Question #5: If the Khans are also “graduated” from their developing world, it makes me wonder what the goals were in their tablets.

Of course, we could all blame the Khans and say that they are the bad guys.

But the Khans are largely the product of their creator(s) who made them and set their goals /destiny.

I guess that if they had not reached their goals at the end of their cycle, they would have to do another round. So, everything must have gone according to the plan, and they graduated.

I wonder who the creator(s) were, what they tried to accomplice with that soul group.

It must have been something like; ah, let’s try and make warlike, hierarchical, psychopathic soul group and see what happens.

If you put a seed in the ground, that seed can become a beautiful flower, if the conditions are right.

If you have a bad seed, even if the environment is right, nothing good will grow out of it.

I don't know if the Sirians are innate psychopathic or that they are just ignorant and full of fear?

I think nobody want to have the prospect of creating something beautiful and next day it's getting destroyed by some warlike group.

Comment: Such excellent and thought-provoking questions. Thank you! Okay, I need to give you a spoiler from my upcoming book, otherwise I can't comment on your questions.

Many people, understandably, think of Orion as the Orion Constellation and Orion's Belt. Also, they think of Sirius as a star system. Both of those conceptions hold parts of the truth, but that's just on a certain level. In the WPP, Level 2, I talked about the

Wes Penre Productions

Sirian and Orion Empires. There were those (again, understandably so) who got a bad taste in their mouths when I talked about “empires” because it resounds war, conquering, genocide, etc., etc. Yes, there are wars out there, but not in the sense we think. We live in the Matrix, which is just an encapsulated part of the entire physical universe. But what everybody needs to understand is that it’s not merely the Matrix that is “bad,” it’s the entire physical universe, which I call the Greater Universe in my precious works. The Greater Universe is arguably better than this enclosed matrix, but it’s not a place where most of us want to roam. Ponder the title of my upcoming book (my comment to Question #1). Why three? We might imagine a war between the physical universe and the spirit universe, but there is another one, too.

So, whom we call the Khan Kings (the Sirians) are not limited to the Sirian star system. The entire universe is the Sirian Empire. The Orion Empire, we could perhaps say is divided in two: One is purely spirit, and the other one is semi-spiritual. Who is the current Crown Prince, and who is the current King? Who is first in command, and who is second? Those who have read the WPP (wespenre.com) know the answer. But what is the Kingdom? Aren’t we talking about a Queendom? Yes, we are. So, where does Ninurta fit in? Where does Khan En.lil fit in? See my upcoming book. I know I’m teasing you, but I can’t tell you right now because then I spoil the book.

Eventually, little by little, I will reveal what is in my books for free on this blog, such as in Q&As and in articles, but that will be a few years down the line.

Question #6: Clarity of mind and awareness seem to be critical in making life and philosophical choices. Mental, emotional and psychological disorders are rampant today. I believe some of that is by design. Do you have any dietary advice that would help with these problems? Would it help attaining mental clarity to process through traumas and achieve anything to help escape this realm? It seems difficult to progress with neurotransmitter imbalance. It seems we should eliminate the consumption of substances that would handicap us. Your thoughts?

Comment: My comment to that might not be popular among some or many people, but it is what it is. My experience, from having tried it all, is that a carnivore diet is what really makes us healthy. I've been a vegetarian and a vegan, but that just made me weak, physically. I truly hate to say this, but a meat-based diet helped curing physical ailments I had in the past and gave me energy. Today, I'm eating mostly meat, but I also include some veggies, and carbs in general, to my diet to get more of a fullness.

To be honest, I hate that this is how it is (at least for me). I love animals, and I don't want them to be killed to save me, but in this construct, it seems like the hunters and gatherers became the healthier ones in the long run. It's gruesome, and I know I'm a coward in that regard because I let others do the killing while I go to the store and buy minced meat. If I had a rifle, I would not be able to kill a deer, as little as I would be able to kill a human. So, it's an oxymoron in a sense.
