Q&A Session #9, 2026 by Wes Penre, April 12, 2026

*****

Welcome, and thank you for your questions! Please send more to wespenre2@gmail.com, including 'Q&A' in the subject line, so I don't miss your email.

PLEASE READ (2026 News):

Please keep your questions as brief as possible. I understand that sometimes it's not feasible to keep it short when conveying your message. Just doing your best is good enough.

To see my entire book collection, please visit this link on Amazon.com (and then click "see more" at the bottom of the page). Books are now translated into Spanish, German, Russian, Polish, and Estonian by various publishers, including Amazon. In 2026, we will most likely also see my books published in Romanian, one by one.

I also just published a new nonfiction book called "Navigating the Nanoverse," which is also translated into Spanish and German.

Please note: If the question(s) you submit is/are omitted, it's usually for two reasons: there was no space to include all questions that week, so keep an eye open for one of the following Q&As. Alternatively, and for some reason, the question(s) did not fit the hallmark for a Q&A—perhaps too broad or complex to answer in this format. It's never because I think a question is "stupid."

Unfortunately, I don't have time to watch videos that people sometimes send me as part of the question. Instead, please focus on the part of the video that relates to the question and include it in the question. Also, please refrain from sending links or lengthy PDFs; I don't have time to read them. When I receive these attachments and links, I must automatically disregard these questions unless I can comment on them without having to attend to the attachments.

IMPORTANT NOTE: I truly appreciate all the questions I receive, but please be mindful before sending them. Too many people are just quickly scribbling down words without editing their writing afterward. That puts the burden on me. I often have to thoroughly edit many of these questions, which can take a lot of time.

Here is what emails often look like. people are starting sentences with a small latter, and no space after commas moreover, they skip periods (like before "moreover") let the sentences just flow into each other, and misspell most common words. then they send it like that and let me fix it.

I find this disrespectful and kindly ask you to please edit your writing before sending the email. It doesn't have to be perfect, but please do your best. I understand that some people are also dyslexic or have other disabilities. For others, spelling and grammar might not be their strongest point, but I'm not talking about that. I'm talking about lazy writing. With some improvement, we can all enjoy your questions. Of course, this does not apply to everybody. I'm the king of mistyping to the brink of annoyance, but I always go back and correct it.

Don't let this rub you the wrong way if you feel "guilty" about it. I only want to point it out to simplify things. Just improve from now on, that's all I ask. And don't let this small correction keep you from sending questions.

Don't let this rub you the wrong way if you feel "guilty" of this. I just need to point it out to make it easier. Just improve this from now on, that's all I ask for. And don't let this little correction stop you from asking questions.

Question #1: If we look at Japanese culture, and especially their architecture, which is harmonious and very precise—ascetic yet aesthetic—and compare it with people’s clothing, their theatrical performances, and their old songs and music, it raises the question of where these people come from. Or are they some kind of artificial “doll people”?

Can you say anything about the Japanese in terms of who they are? Are they people with spirit, or not?

Comment: As far as I know, all humans who have lived on this planet since the Archons tinkered with our DNA and created homo sapiens are all homo sapiens and members of the human soul group. The differences in appearance and culture are due to experiments within the Experiment. Different “races” have to do with who “owns” their DNA, but they have also been used for different tasks by the archontic forces.

Japanese culture is indeed interesting, but it is just another experiment within the human soul group that chose a different culture, whether by their own choice and evolution or by being steered in that direction by the offworldly puppet masters.

Question #2: I was rather confused about whether our universe (Kenoma + Orion) was, is & will be the only universe in existence.

Comment: I would argue that the Kenoma (including Orion), is the only physical universe in existence. Then it’s a matter of how we define a universe. There are many different viewpoints on that, depending on culture and how it is viewed. Science teaches us that the entire material universe is the one and only universe; others might say that a solar system, or a planet, a star, or a galaxy is its own universe... But to answer your question, I decided to use the scientific approach. We also have universes inside our minds, not to forget.

Question #3: Hi Wes, you talk in your latest book about how the Jesus story was hijacked by Marduk during the time of the Roman Empire, when they worshipped Marduk as Saturn. Do you think that, for that relatively short period, Marduk communicated to his priest class through the astral, and maybe he wasn't incarnated during that time? Because strong resonance hit me with this story, rather than Marduk being there incarnated as Jesus. But he was definitely making his moves during the Roman period, I believe. Thank you.

Comment: Whether Marduk was incarnated in the time of Jesus, I don't know. I now believe, however, that Marduk did not hijack the Jesus story while Yeshua (the physical Messiah) was alive, but rather when Gnosticism turned into Christianity and the original story was corrupted.

Whether Marduk was directly involved in the creation of early Christianity is hard to say, since power-hungry humans could have carried it out, taking the power back into the Roman Catholic Church. Christianity is a major distortion, where the Divine Feminine is suppressed, and Marduk and En.ki can gain from the worship and control by the Church, as is the case with any and all established religions. It's also interesting that the founders of Christianity—the Catholic Church—banned the Gnostic texts and Gnosticism. The Catholic Church is still closeted paganism, where the Vatican worships pagan gods, just like in Roman times.

Question #4: What happens if a sibling commits suicide in your immediate family? Does that affect my chances of going through the grid to the Pleroma or the Ogdoad?

Yes, my brother's death is the "things come in threes." First, my sister passed away in August 2016, my mother in June 2023, and now my brother in April 2026. Once again, I actually feel more freedom now, as my brother was as narcissistic as my mother, but with a worse temper.

Comment: You have gone through a lot of hardship and grief lately. I'm very sorry to hear that. It's difficult to deal with.

The good news is, when it comes to you, none of what's happened in your family will affect your chances to go through the Grid and wherever you go from there.

Question #5: Wes, thank you for your work.

My question is about people who cannot access your work. If someone who does not know the languages your books are in (let's say someone living in remote areas, like a jungle), and is a spiritual person, can such a person, by simply going inside, discover everything you have come up with all by himself or herself?

Is it even theoretically possible that someone can arrive at Gnosis all by himself? After all, we are spirited beings.

Comment: Yes, it is possible. Jungle tribes and other remote groups of people—particularly those who live close to nature—can theoretically gain insights. Spiritual matters are important to most groups of people, regardless of where they live, and many tribes have shamans and/or spiritual practices.

A person doesn't need to know their exact destination after death. The most important thing is to realize that the Matrix is a trap. Moreover, it's not our world; we are spiritual beings, and there is a place from which we came and to which we are returning. If a person is fully aware of these things and determined to leave this world for good without attachments, the chances are they might land in the right place. Has it ever happened that way? I don't know. I guess nobody knows because even if we study a "jungle tribe" closely, we have no way of knowing where a dying person of that tribe will end up after bodily death, regardless of their insight.
