Q&A Session #13, 2026 by Wes Penre, June 1, 2026

Welcome, and thank you for your questions! Please send more to wespenre2@gmail.com, including 'Q&A' in the subject line, so I don't miss your email.

PLEASE READ (2026 News):

Please keep your questions as brief as possible. I understand that sometimes it's not feasible to keep it short when conveying your message. Just doing your best is good enough.

To see my entire book collection, please visit this link on Amazon.com (and then click "see more" at the bottom of the page). Books are now translated into Spanish, German, Russian, Polish, and Estonian by various publishers, including Amazon. In 2026, we will most likely also see my books published in Romanian, one by one.

I also just published a new nonfiction book called "Navigating the Nanoverse," which is also translated into Spanish and German.

Please note: If the question(s) you submit is/are omitted, it's usually for two reasons: there was no space to include all questions that week, so keep an eye open for one of the following Q&As. Alternatively, and for some reason, the question(s) did not fit the hallmark for a Q&A—perhaps too broad or complex to answer in this format. It's never because I think a question is "stupid."

Unfortunately, I don't have time to watch videos that people sometimes send me as part of the question. Instead, please focus on the part of the video that relates to the question and include it in the question. Also, please refrain from sending links or lengthy PDFs; I don't have time to read them. When I receive these attachments and links, I must automatically disregard these questions unless I can comment on them without having to attend to the attachments.

Question #1: Hi Wes, I'm on the fence (like many) about what actually happened with the Jesus story. Ie. who was Jesus, if there was a Jesus, how Geradamas' message was actually delivered, etc. It's a real mystery because so many conclusions seem inconsistent.

What do you think about the late (great) Jordan Maxwell's take on it - that it's just "a story"? Could the Jesus story have been channeled to those writing the New Testament by Marduke...with the intention to purposefully obscure its origin and manipulate it? Isn't it likely that Enki and Marduke already knew the structure of the universe as put forth by the Gnostic Texts before the Jesus Story happened?

You mention in your latest book that Marduke possibly hijacked the Jesus story after the crucifixion. If Enlil incarnated as a human to deliver Geradamas' message, as you postulate, wouldn't it be likely that Marduke and/or Enki would have tried to extinguish that effort? Also, have you ever seen Daz Smith's RV session about the crucifixion? Curious to get your thoughts.

Comment: Most people who read the Q&As are familiar with channeling, which is how a person tunes into what they perceive is an external entity in the astral or another star system, etc. I try to distinguish channeling from "funneling" to explain two different phenomena. Funneling is when a person connects with their own Higher Self, which is Geradamas or Sophia, depending on which is their true Higher Self.

Funneling information is not in the form of someone talking through you with a distinct voice, as in Barbara Marcinak's "Pleidians," for example. Funneling is an epiphany or a "message" that arrives as a concept and is then interpreted by the receiver and their 3-D mind. That will always be a little distorted, since the 3-D mind is much inferior to the Pleroma-based Geradamas.

The 3-D person we call Jesus or Yeshua was born into an ancient bloodline on purpose, to more easily funnel the Divine message. The soul of Yeshua was most likely Prince En.lil. Thus, it was not En.lil himself who directly conveyed the Divine message from the Pleroma, but Geradamas funneling it through him. Yeshua could then, in his own voice, relay it to disciples and others who had "ears to hear" and "eyes to see."

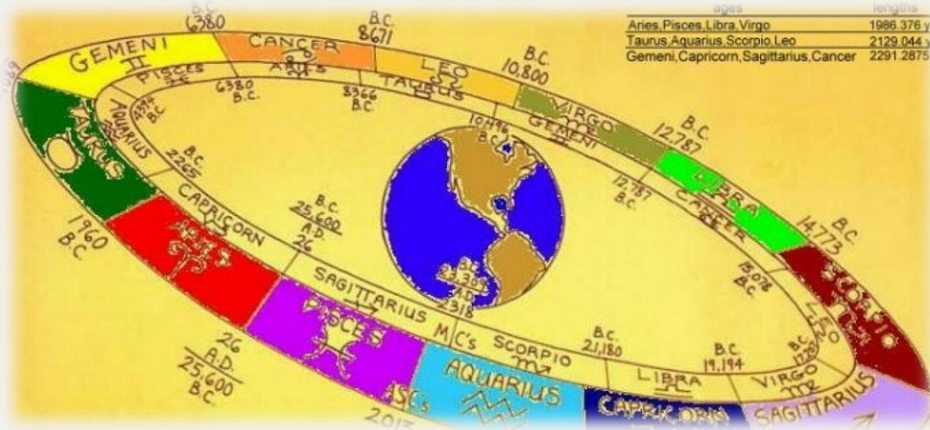

This later evolved into Gnosticism and was written down as gospels, meaning "good news."

The pagan Roman Church saw a great advantage in these teachings, so long as it could add to and subtract from the original messages to better fit a new religion, i.e., a new control system the pagan (and still pagan) Roman Catholic Church could use. For that to happen, the original texts needed to be destroyed and the movement suppressed. Both happened, but a group of Gnostics hid many scrolls in Nag Hammadi, Egypt, which were not rediscovered until 1945.

The new religion, with all its branches, became Christianity and the New Testament of the Bible. Although the New Testament contains many truths, its message is distorted and inverted to serve the patriarchy, instead of acknowledging that the universe is feminine in origin. So, instead of leading to self-exploration, which is the purpose in Gnosticism, Christianity became a religion of worship and inferiority, in which followers give away their power to an omnipotent "God" (Yaldabaoth) and his son, Marduk, who "elevated" himself to Jesus through Catholicism. Thus, they could get all the loosh (energy) we give them by worshiping Jesus, the man, in the form of Marduk, and God, in the form of Yaldabaoth. The God of the Roman Catholic Church, pagan as it is, always has been Yaldabaoth and Marduk.

Even more importantly, Christianity, the religion, has successfully hindered all followers from gaining self-awareness and Gnosis, which is the only path to salvation—and Gnosticism is not a religion; it's remembrance of who we are, why we're here, how we got here, and where we're headed. Christianity has removed all that. Has nothing to do with religion and worship.

Question #2: While referring "Simulation...." Book, I got confused in the astrology sub-section.

We know there is still time before the reset automatically occurs in our solar system, as programmed by Saturn, the Time Keeper.

Hypothetically, what would happen if the due date of the reset is tomorrow? Will humanity just go to the Stone Age in the blink of an eye, because the reset has occurred and the time cycle has to start from the beginning??

I am afraid I am a little confused.

Comment: Linear time, as we perceive time in the Matrix, is divided into astrological ages, each approximately 2,167 years each. There is usually a major reset with each transformation into a new age (we are about to enter the Age of Aquarius). When the next reset happens, it will be technology-based—we will enter the Singularity, where the world as we know it will cease to exist, and we will, with consciousness and all, enter a digital future and become a true digital hive mind, completely under archontic and EL-ite control.

Later this year, I will start writing a new book, which I most likely will call "The Singularity is Clear," playing on the Silicon Valley Singularity guru Dr. Ray Kurzweil's book, "The Singularity is Near." It will answer many questions people have about the Singularity and much more, explaining exactly how it's all going to go down and why.

Yes, to ride our Avatars, as I've discussed many times, but there is much more to it, also connected to the human mission and the end of times.

Question #3: Hi Wes, hope all is well. I really love your fantasy writing as well. I really liked the Sky Born and the Minstrel. I was wondering if you have any plans to complete the Akkira Chronicles. Thank you.

Comment: Ah, this is about my novel. I don't get many questions about it, so I'm glad you asked. A few years ago, I wrote a completed trilogy called "Ismaril's Journey," available on Amazon. I also started a new epic, The Akkira Chronicles, and the first book, "The Sky-Born and the Minstrel," is on Amazon.

However, after publishing the first volume, I've had second thoughts. This was meant to be a series of many books, but if I continue that route, I'll probably end up like George R.R. Martin, who wrote the Game of Thrones series but has not completed it and likely won't. I don't want to be in that position.

My current plan is to rewrite the Sky-Born book and simplify the plot, turning it into a trilogy. That's what I'm leaning toward at the moment. Until I've decided how to structure it, the Sky-Born book will remain available on Amazon as is. In parallel, I'm also writing a new fantasy book that I'm typing away on between my nonfiction books.

Question #4: I have been reading the Battles Between Shadow and Light and have reached the chapter titled "The Consummation of the Age."

I just got one question that.. Yaldabaoth and Kenoma were created by Pistis Sophia. And she breathed spirit (mistakenly) into him so as to move him around. Are his spirit and our spirit different?

If it is the same (originated from Sophia), why would he (Yaldabaoth) not be enlightened (yet)?

Please clarify a little more.

Thank you!

Comment: There is only one Spirit, but Spirit can have different essential locations in the Pleroma and in the Kenoma, as well.

Wes Penre Productions

Because Sophia lacked a masculine counterpart when she created the Kenoma, Yaldabaoth became her “false counterpart.” Sophia tried to remedy this by breathing Spirit into Yaldabaoth and the Kenoma. That brought the Demiurge to life, but he was a creation of matter (material) and therefore remained matter, although he still carried remnants of Sophia’s Spirit. Since matter is Sophia’s flawed counterpart, it will always remain masculine, and so will Yaldabaoth.

Some of Sophia’s Spirit is trapped within the Kenoma and is the same remnant that Yaldabaoth blew into Homo sapiens (in Gnosticism, called the counterfeit spirit), residing in our blood cells. None of Sophia’s Spirit can directly return to the Pleroma. Figuratively speaking, her breath is “floating around” in the Kenoma and will remain here until the end of time (the final Consumation of the Age).

Therefore, most people are of Sophia’s breath, which resides in the Homo sapiens body. When the body dies, the breath ascends through the soul container (avatar) into the astral plane. For an uninformed soul-spirit of Sophia’s origin, it usually goes into the Tunnel of Light and into the recycling center (BLA, aka the Between Lives Area), where the breath is removed and reconsumed by the Archons. A new, blank-slate soul container is then shot down into a new human body with complete memory loss and therefore must start over from scratch.

Since Yaldabaoth was created in the Kenoma and came to life here, he can never return to the Pleroma (Spirit Universe), as that is not his origin and he does not belong there. Archons can’t go to the Pleroma. They can become enlightened but cannot fully understand Spirit in its true form.

The original humans (the Namlú’u), now integrated into the Homo sapiens species, originate with Geradamas, who sent “Sparks,” parts of Geradamas’ Spirit, to Tiamat to help Sophia regain her Spirit in the Kenoma and end the archontic regime. These are the 3-UCs I’ve been discussing. These Sparks entered the Kenoma after its creation and can therefore return directly to the Pleroma to reunite with their Higher Self—Geradamas (also called Adamas or Anthropos).

Question #5: Where exactly is the BLA (Between Lives Area) you mention in the Wes Penre Papers?

Comment: During my WPP years, I learned that the technological home station for the BLA is on Mars, but it looks like the part humans experience is on the moon.
